Commodore

When I first became Commodore I saw two items that needed attention. One was the Budget and the other the Bylaws.

Back in March just before the eventual COVID-19 forced a shut down, a Budget Committee met to see how bad the bleeding was and what was needed to be trimmed or cut. As bad as the shut down was to businesses, it proved to be a savior to us as far as expenditures and keeping our cash flow from red to black. The Dinghy Dock was given a reprieve from being parted out and is now home of the Lido 14's. What was once a financial liability has shown great promise with added income to the Club. I thank the Long Range Planning Committee and Chuck Queen for making a vision a reality. I understand there is a wait list and consideration for extra space is being sought.

The second item is the Bylaws. At the August Board Meeting John Coyne suggested forming a Bylaws Committee. They would be responsible for creating and maintaining the bylaws as voted on by the Board of Trustees.

There are nine (9) committee members comprised of Past Commodores, current Board members, and General Membership members. A first meeting has yet to be set.

I want to remind everyone that November 9 General Meeting via Zoom is an important one. 2021 Board Elections. All Charter, Life, Active, and Active Non-Boat Owners will be eligible to vote and must be in good standing. Please know that the Nominating Committee— Jeremy Bush, Vice Commodore, Evie Engnoth, Chuck Queen, Angie Morales, Commodore, and Ed Pinkham has had its first meeting. Ed Pinkham was selected to be the Committee Chair. The committee will be following Article VIII Nominations and Elections.

Hope to see you at the October 12 General Meeting on Zoom

Vice Commodore

Happy October! Not to throw a wrench in an already stellar year, but keep your eyes out for a blue moon on October 31st! That's right, not only one full moon, but two in the month of October. And what could go wrong with the planets aligning on All Hallows Eve this year? I bet nothing, but who knows with everything that's been going on this year!

October also means it's time to nominate your friends and clubmates for positions in the club! If you are interested in filling a position, please reach out to any member or the leadership, or let your friends know you want to be nominated so they can present your name at the October general meeting.

The nominating committee is hard at work trying to find some great candidates for club positions as well. You can reach out to the committee either by contacting them directly, or emailing board@cyct.com. The committee consists of Ed Pinkham (committee chair), Chuck Queen, Evie Engnoth, Jeremy Bush, and Angie Morales. Positions to be voted on this year are as follows:

Commodore
Vice Commodore
Rear Commodore
Membership Chair
Secretary
Treasurer
Fleet Captain - Racing
Co Captain - Racing

We also have several appointed positions opening up. These simply need volunteers. These are the open appointed positions:

Crew Coordinator
Club Merchandise
Trophies
Historian
PHRF Handicapper
Publicity/Social Media

At our October meeting, we will also have the Recreational Boaters of Washington (RBAW) presenting! We will start the meeting with the presenter, and then go into the business portion with nominations. So please plan on attending.

Also, while on the topic of elections - We are likely going to be mailing out ballots this year, so keep your eye on the mail. If you have changed addresses, please let us know ASAP so you don't miss your ballot. After nominations are collected at the October meeting, we will send out the ballot as soon as

Rear Commodore

If April showers bring May flowers, then September droughts bring October rains!

It has been an exciting summer for sure, more exciting for some. We all hope that everyone is safe and we are able to return to normalcy.

Sailing is still going on, let's keep getting out there with our sails stretched out to catch the "puffs".

Then when we return to the dock or clubhouse, we can compare "stories" with your favorite barely pop, or just water if you like.

There are now recycle receptacles at the clubhouse. Thank you Eve! They are for your plastics, aluminum cans and even glass bottles, those all can be recycled. It would be greatly appreciated if we could all use those and keep them out of the burn barrel. The greenery has been trimmed around the clubhouse, and the grass (weeds) are taking hold once again. Let's keep our clubhouse clean and green.

Would you like to put any of your sailing, or boating pictures up in the bulletin board that is on the side of the clubhouse. If so, send a message to me. I will see that your fun times can be shared by all of us sailors, and boaters too.

Michael Stanford
S/V Lycian

possible. We ask that the ballot be in the mail no later than the November general meeting.

The board will be looking into methods for collecting electronic votes for perpetual trophies and voting at the November meeting since we will likely not be meeting in person still.

Cruising

On September 19th we held our 3rd Cruising Day-Sail Rally for 2020, This time around the Rally was also co-hosted with the Tacoma Yacht Club sailors), and the weather and wind DID NOT disappoint! No smoke or rain!

We had seven boats from CYCT:

JEOPARDY, Lycian, Namaste, Raven, Red Splash, Short Circuit, and Whisper.

Three boats from TYC also joined in the fun: Nemesis, Take Five, and Xocomil.

All in all we had a total of 28 sailors participate. What a great way to say good-bye to summer and hello to fall.

How does a "Rally" differ from a "Race"? In a Race you race for time, in a Rally the winner is determined by points. Coming in "first" has no effect on your point total at all. To ensure all boats sailed the course correctly, each boat had to take a picture of a crew member and the mark, which sounds easier than it is.

Congratulations to TYC's Xocomil who won the Rally (55 points) and the Lady Luck Poker Run (Full House). CYCT's Raven came in a very close 2nd Place (51 points). JEOPARDY and Take Five tied for 3rd Place (50 points).

The next scheduled CYCT Cruise in the near horizon is the Le Mans Race / Clam Chowder Cook-Off Hosted by Gary & Joy Ballentine. It is uncertain at this time whether or not Arabella's Landing will be open for transient moorage, as they have been closed for that service all summer long. Stay tuned to Facebook and the CYCT.com web page for more updates, hopefully by the end of October.

Education!

I want to shift topics and talk about COVID 19 this month. As you all know, for the past 9 months this pandemic has caused tremendous damage on our health and the economy. Millions of people have been unemployed, and our health system has been in crisis. Our way of life has changed, and we have learned this may go on for some time. A vaccine is on the way, but much is still in doubt. Maybe in early 2021. The pandemic has limited our sailing, and canceled many of our cruises and social activities. During this time, the Club has survived, and has actually started new programs (the Lido sailing and cruise Rallies). We need to remain cautious and continue our precautions against COVID 19. Sailing is an open air sport, and should be fairly safe, but we need to be aware that social activities after sailing are of higher risk. This is especially true as the fall weather cools, and socialization goes into the cabin. As we spend more time in our cabins social distancing is more difficult and the space is more confining. The risk of passing on this disease is higher. Wearing a mask has become the first line of defense in stopping the progression of this disease. We know COVID 19 is transmitted through the air, as well physical touching.

When we are socializing, we should maintain social distancing as much as possible. Wear a mask when indoors, or whenever we cannot maintain social distancing. If food is being served we should use disposable dishes and utensils. We should avoid potluck dishes. Serve food in individual containers whenever possible. We should have soap and water, sanitizer (70% alcohol), and paper towels available.

COVID 19 is not a superbug. It is still a virus. Although COVID 19 can exist in the open for a limited amount of time, it is easily inactivated by normal sanitation methods. Alcohol hand sanitizer, bleach, and ammonium compounds work well. Young healthy people almost always will recover from COVID 19. It is much more serious as we age, or if we have underlying medical conditions. It is very important we all follow recommendations of local, state, and federal health experts. We all should wear masks when indoors or any time we cannot social distance. Washing hands frequently, or using hand sanitizer is a must.

Safety Note - Now that fall is here, we need to make sure we are ready for the cooler weather. This is a good time to check our boat batteries. Not just the house batteries, but also the ones that power your flashlights and safety equipment. It is going to get wet and cold, so we should check our foul weather gear, so we will be warm. Check your furnace, and restock hand warmers too.

News from The Lido Deck

We had our first regatta this weekend! Under sunny skies with puffy, gusty and shifty winds, 6 boats sailed 6 races. We had 5 different crews win races with 18 sailors rotating in and out of boats. Race winners were Greg (Whisper) & Rebekah (Slick/Whisper), Penny & Pat (Intrepid), Tyler (Slick) & Allison (Goes to 11), Kyle (Stryder) & Adelaide (Leaky Cauldron), and Jacklyn & Chuck. For most sailors this was their first dinghy regatta. I really enjoyed seeing the improvement as the day progressed. In the last start, there was quite a battle for the favored end of the line. It was fantastic. Thank you to Vice Commodore Jeremy Bush and Allison Bondy for RC duties. No capsizes, no protests and no collisions...just smiles all around. The races were sailed just outside the Tyee Marina breakwater.

What a great month it's been for Lidos! We have a FULL Lido Dock, 6 boats sailing and a waiting list. This month we have welcomed two new members to our fleet. Erik Mikkelsen and family purchased a 6000 Series Lido. Erik sails the family Columbia 34 Leaky Cauldron and spends time sailing with Jay Pyles on Short Circuit. Also new to our little fleet is Brad Olney. Brad sails on Whisper with Greg Greene. Brad completed his paperwork and is joining CYCT as a new member. Welcome! This makes 8 Lidos in our CYCT Fleet. As for the full Lido Dock, we are working at securing more space and hope to have this worked out soon.

We will be continuing Fun Fridays for now as weather and participation continue to be good. If you'd like to sail a Lido, please let me know. Our next event is the Frostbite Regatta on Sunday, October 25th, at Noon.

Invitation to Pledge to Protect Southern Resident Orcas

Dear Commodore/Club Leader,

We seek your help in recovering the critically endangered southern resident orcas. Since 1998, the population has declined precipitously, to a current day near-historical low of just 72 individuals. The recent news that at least three females are pregnant is a ray of hope for this struggling population.

It is critical to give the pregnant orcas in all three pods the best possible chance of having healthy calves, by giving them more space and quieter waters to find food, rest, socialize, and birth and raise their young. We are requesting your help in getting the word out to boaters on the seriousness of the situation and the opportunity to take a pledge to protect the orcas during this time.

The threats faced by the orcas are all human-caused: lack of salmon, toxic accumulations, and noise and disturbance from boats. Studies show that noise and salmon availability are inextricably linked. Boaters therefore have an important and immediate role to play in the recovery of J, K and L pods.

We are asking all sail and power boaters, kayakers, and jet skiers to avoid the southern resident orcas while out on the water, and to take the following pledge by clicking here. We ask that you share this information and encourage your members to take the pledge.

As a boater in the Salish Sea, I pledge to protect the southern resident orcas, and give the pregnant orcas in all three pods the best possible chance of having healthy calves, by giving them more space and quieter waters to find food and communicate with each other. Over the next year:

I commit to staying 1/2 nautical mile (1,000 yards or 1 kilometer) away from the endangered southern resident orcas, to give them the space and quiet that they need.

If I encounter orcas, I will not approach or follow them, but instead will slow down (as Washington State law requires) to reduce noise, and quietly depart, to a distance of at least ½ nautical mile where possible.

If unable to differentiate between the endangered southern resident orcas and transient orcas, I will

We envision a brighter future when the orcas are recovered, thriving in healthy and abundant seas. But that day will never come unless we act boldly and courageously to protect them now, and give them the space and the salmon they need. Please commit to stop watching the Southern Residents, and join with us to make the Salish Sea a place that can sustain them again.

Pledge organizers are Friends of the San Juans, Natural Resources Defense Council, Seattle Aquarium, The Whale Trail, Washington Environmental Council. We are joined by the undersigned in our request.

Thank you for considering, and we look forward to hearing from you. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to reach out to any of the organizers.

SHOVING OFF

Social Distancing

For the two reader of the total of four to this column, Shoving Off has been the tale of how we bought a 52-foot motor sailor, sold our house, and moved aboard with our, now almost six years old, granddaughter. The eventual intent is spending about half of the year cruising as far north as Alaska, and spending parts of winter, with or without the boat, in Mexico. The lovely and gracious Mrs. St. John was able to retire at the start of this year. My attempt at retirement was met with Covid 19 and the stock market plunge. Needless to say, I'm still working.

The pandemic does have its upside. With churches shut down, I have no Sunday obligations such as ushering and reading, and we've been free to travel since, wherever we are, we are in our home. We've been out more weekends than we have been at home this past summer. Being live aboards makes this super simple. No packing. Make sure that we have water in the tank and go. Having abundant, unused vacation time, we have stretched these weekends into three and four days.

In late July we started out on a two day weekend that was so good, we stretched it into three. We've wanted to go to Cutt's Island in Henderson Bay for many years, ever since an aborted CYCT cruise that featured a night in Gig Harbor and a race to the island. By time we had arrived (last I think) at Cutt's in our Cal 2-27, Sirena Gorda, the wind was blowing something fierce and the decision had been made to relocate to Penrose State Park and better protection. At Penrose, we broke into small rafts, us rafting up to Billy Carter on Discovery. We bought a much more substantial anchor after that weekend!

But that is another story!

We arrived at Cutt's Island after a quick trip through the Narrows and anchored between the island and Kopachuck State Park. The anchoring was easy in 30 feet of water with lots of room. The view of the island was beautiful.

The next morning we went ashore at low tide, picked oysters off of the beach, and dug for clams. After that we decided to walk around the island. Cutt's is small. We found a rope swing where Rylie could swing and grandpa could worry. Rylie and I climbed to the interior (again, very small island) where I was able to spot an eagle's nest with a juvenile eagle in it. How amazing!

After a bit, we headed back to La Sirena to have lunch and for Rylie to relax in the foredeck pool. What could spoil this? Nothing, except about a gazillion ski boats and party barges. No worries. We decided to fire up the engine and ride the incoming tide through Pitt Passage to the serenity of Filucy Bay where we dropped the hook with a stunning view of Mount Ranier.

Once settled in Filucy, we lowered the kayaks for a good paddle around and into the little inlets. We'd done the same earlier this spring when the tide was low. This time the tide was high. It's a whole different paddle. If I recall correctly, dinner that night was steak and oysters. The clams, eh! In the morning, it was on to something new.

We'd already decided that the weather was too nice to head back Sunday afternoon. I had vacation to burn and places to see. I texted a message that I was taking Monday off and we headed south? McMicken? Been there. Jerrols Cove, nope. We headed to Hope Island. A state park with some strong currents surrounding her. Again, no worries. We've learned about anchors and we have a wonderful Spade anchor and all chain rode.

Following our guide books, we anchored on the western side of the island to the Squaxin Island side of the state park mooring field. La Sirena is actually too big for state park buoys, so anchoring is the norm. Once set we dinghied between Hope and Squaxin, which is all tribal land, to the east side of the island. There we landed the dinghy, came ashore, and explored the old homestead that is there. After that we took a hike around the island, marveling at the old growth timber with the sunlight streaming through.

After our hike, we returned to La Sirena, continuing our circumnavigation of Hope. We were aboard long enough to pick up some food and head to the beach immediately ashore of our anchorage so that Rylie could play in the water. Hope Island did have her share of power boaters, but nothing on the scale of Cutt's Island. Being Sunday evening, I figured that traffic would die down, which it did at about 5:00 PM.

Returning home on Monday was a pleasant trip. The beauty of La Sirena is that she makes long trips more comfortable. This trip though was not only comfortable, but special. In Drayton Passage between Key Peninsula and Anderson Island, we were joined by a white sided dolphin. Porpoise are plentiful in the south sound, but they are always at a distance. These dolphins are much more rare, but they seem to put on a show.

With a big, clear passage and an excellent auto pilot, we enjoyed this show for almost a half of an hour. The dolphin would swim under and before the bow and then separate for some spectacular leaps. There were a few finales and more than one encore. This dolphin put the exclamation mark on what was a great weekend.

We transited this same path two weeks ago. No dolphin and me sick with vertigo. Not nearly the same, but that's another story.

If this weekend was social distancing, I'm OK with it.
